

Chris Hauge / Director

After years of casual dating, we finally nabbed this internationally sought-after director for our permanent roster. Widely known for his classic and well-timed character animation, Chris has produced work across the media spectrum, in several different time zones, with people who speak many different languages and worship several different gods.

We'd first seen him around the water cooler back at Colossal Pictures where he served as Animation Director, directing commercials and developing television series concepts and short form identities. Always game for joint trysts, his collaborative projects include Deck Dogz with Universal Pictures, Gorillaz with Passion Pictures, the comedy series Mr.Bean with Tiger Aspect/Varga, and various projects for MTV and Wild Brain. Chris later became Principal Animation Director for London's premier commercial house, Passion Pictures, and went on to serve as Lead Animator on the Warner Bros. feature Space Jam. We knew if he set him free, he'd eventually come back to us. Mom told us he was a keeper.
