

March 6, 2009

firstlook

An early peek at some of Hollywood's coolest projects

Jack Black Rocks Out on a Kids' Show

With a single appearance on the trippy, hipster-friendly Nickelodeon children's show Yo Gabba Gabba! (airing April 3), Black will satisfy two of his core fan groups: little kids and college-age potheads.

"I'm hitting two birds with one stoner, as it were," Black says.

"Unfortunately, I'm looking pretty sweaty and greasy. Hopefully, it won't be too scary for the kids. But you know, Charlize Theron wasn't looking her best in Monster and it won her the Oscar. This episode is my Monster, basically." —Josh Rottenberg